Bond, Samson.

A publick tryal of the Quakers in Barmudas upon the first day of May, 1678. First, the charge against them was openly read, containing these particulars: as 1. That a Quakers pretended Saviour within him, is not the true Christ, but the false Christ, the devil. 2. That the main end of the Quakers meetings in these islands, is to make the Lords Christ, His Holy Spirit, His angels, and apostles, all lyars and false witnesses of God. 3. That the prim-principles of a Quaker, are the same held and professed by the beasts, which Paul fought with at Ephesus. Secondly, the whole charge being proved by the

The article on the gold collar was first written in the winter of 1937-38. The first half of the article appeared in the Law journal of September 2, 1939 and the second half was scheduled to appear in the number for September 9, 1939, which the declaration of war prevented. The entire article is now printed as it was then set up with the exception that the name of Viscount Caldecote has now been added to the names of the lord chief justices of England. cf. Introd.
The article on the trial of the Pyx was one of a series which appeared in the Law journal in August and September, 1939. cf. Introd.
